

Modern folk music to open your heart

"If ever there was a feel-good folk musician, this is the woman – somebody who really does send you off feeling better about the world."
— John Davy, No Depression

ABOUT ELLIS DELANEY

A gifted songwriter and performer, Ellis is known for her stirring lyrics, open-hearted performances and contagious laughter. She got her start at coffee shops and now tours the folk circuit. She has been a four-time guest on A Prairie Home Companion. Ellis has won more than a dozen songwriting & performance awards and she has been teaching songwriting at the Rocky Mountain Song School for twelve years. Ellis recently made the decision to give her music away to anyone who asks, offering a digital copy of her albums freely. More info at ellis-music.com

THE GUEST HOUSE

Between touring folk festivals and raising her six year-old daughter, Ellis recorded her ninth full-length album in two states; starting with Kevin Bowe in Minnesota & completing the record with Ben Wisch in New Jersey. The Guest House songs cover the joys and pain of life and death, inviting them all in as guests with a hopeful spirit, just like the Rumi poem that inspired the album title.

PRESS

"Ellis Delaney is a criminally under-appreciated singer, songwriter and performer. She's gifted with a gorgeous voice. She writes beautiful songs with really intelligent lyrics... Ellis has something truly unique."
— Rich Larson, SouthernMinn Scene

"The personal and relentlessly hopeful collection — named after a Rumi poem and inspired by death, motherhood and (legal!) marriage — includes string arrangements by big-dog composer Rob Mathes, who has co-helmed Sting's orchestral albums."
— Chris Riemenschneider, Star Tribune

"If you've seen her perform live, you already know that Ellis is totally engaging. She exhibits a true sense of joy when she sings... Ellis makes her audience feel as lucky as I was to sit a few feet in front of her and listen to her sing."
— Mike Pengra, Radio Heartland
